E.2. Introduction of members and attending staff

All members of the Committee as well as all the others in attendance introduced themselves.

E.3. Roles and Responsibilities of the Committee

David Casnocha, from Stradling, Yocca, Carlson and Rauth, provided some background on public school facility financing. From 1986-2000 bonds required a 2/3 passage rate, but in 2000 Proposition 39 changed that requirement to 55%, but limited the amount to $30 per $100,000 of assessed value and also required more information be provided as well as establishment of an independent audit and oversight committee.
Mr. Casnocha reviewed the roles and responsibilities of the Committee, noting that it is an oversight committee, and not an advisory committee. He reviewed the bylaws and explained that the Committee has no legal remedies. He explained that the Committee must adhere to the Brown Act, topics must be agendized and that oversight was of the bond funds only. He outlined what the funding is for and how the projects were defined. He explained that select staff salaries can be paid by bond proceeds if their position exists because of the bond. He informed the Committee that they have an obligation to inquire about any discrepancies and that they may address the Governing Board if they are not satisfied by the outcome of such inquiry. The Committee also has an obligation to inform the public and that all communication must come from the Committee Chair and reflect majority opinion. The Committee must report to the Governing Board at least annually and may utilize the newspaper or newsletters.

The district is responsible to obtain an annual independent audit (performance and financial) and the Committee must receive that audit within three months. A minimum of seven people are required for the Committee and an ethics standard is enforced. Each Committee Member may serve a maximum of three consecutive two year terms. Any amendment to the approved bylaws must be approved by the Committee.

E.4. Appointment and Election of Officers

Irene Frazier moved to nominate Lisa Swarthout as Committee Chair, Katy Schwarz seconded and the Committee approved the nomination 10-0. Lisa Swarthout moved to nominate Katy Schwarz as Vice-Chair, Irene Frazier seconded and the Committee unanimously approved the nomination.
